The picture with this article is the wedding picture of Will and Minnie Cox. They went in the buggy to Gustine and were married by the Methodist minister. All of the Cox family was at the home place for the wedding dinner. After dinner, all of these people loaded up their buggies and wagons and camped on the South Leon River for several days. Will and Minnie stayed at the home place for their honeymoon.

Sunday, July 21, 1912. The wedding of William Cornelius "Will" Cox and Minnie Steward

My mother said that Daddy went in the buggy to her house (a few miles west of Grandpa Cox's) and picked her up, they went to Gustine and the Methodist minister married them. Then, they went back west from Gustine to Grandpa and Grandma Cox's place for dinner. All of Daddy's family was there. Mama said that they had the best dinner you ever saw, that Grandma Cox and Aunt Bobbie Johnson were the best cooks.

After lunch, Daddy had a photographer to come from Comanche in a buggy, they all went down east of the house, in some pretty post oak trees and had their picture made. Daddy had a copy made for each of his brothers and Aunt Renier. (His sister Ellen had died in 1906).

Notice in the picture, Aunt Renier. Uncle Lum Davis and their two boys, J. C. and Neill. Mama said the boys loved to pick on Daddy, that sometimes he would chase them up in the big cedar tree in the yard on the south side of the house, and wouldn't let them down for hours. Of course, they all loved this.

Then, she said that all of these people put on their old clothes, loaded up the wagons, buggies and hitched up the horses, and all went fishing and camping on the South Leon River (south below Gustine) for several days. So, Mama and Daddy had their honeymoon on the home place.

Mama said that the first morning, Daddy went out to tend to the livestock and she was cooking breakfast. Now, she had made biscuits hundreds of time, but this was on a strange wood cook stove, and it didn't have knobs that you could adjust the heat. But, she said the biscuits were perfect.

Note: we asked for her to tell this story over and over, and never got tired of hearing it. Missy Cox Jones
