Fall/Winter 2018

VOLUME 14 ISSUE 2

2018 Brandywine Cox Family Reunion

The annual Brandywine Cox Family Reunion was held, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, June 1st-3rd in Lampasas, Texas. The new venue, Bar 17 on the courthouse square, was the headquarters for the reunion and provided a nice setting for the family.

A cookout was held Friday evening for family and friends to gather and share a meal. Burgers and hotdogs were prepared by cook, Gary Sutton along with his wife, Joeen and Helen Cox who prepared the fixings. Catching up and dominoes were on the menu following the meal.

Guest speakers Saturday included Paul G. Noack who presented the story "Cowboys and Their Cattle Trails: South Texas to New Orleans -1830-1860". Paul is a researcher and presenter from Austin, Texas. Our afternoon speaker was Chris Meis of Evant, Texas. Chris is employed by the Texas Historical Commission and he spoke to us about the "Texas Archaeological Steward Network (TASN Helping Land Owners".

Project updates were given on the DNA Project and the Military Project. Updates were given on the Brandywine Cox Family Database.

Our Sunday morning began with a family devotional and singing. Ada Cox Stump and Linda Atkins spoke to us about "A Quaker Heritage: John Cox and Mary Harlan". Gary Sutton brought a presentation on "James Farmer -1822-1870, Texas Pioneer, Texas Hero".

We ended our reunion with a catered lunch. Total attendance this years was forty-eight family, friends, and guests!

Meeting Moment – Vision, Leadership and The President's Report

Message from Joe

Brandywine family,

Once again, I'm pleased to say that we had another fine reunion in Lampasas, TX, this past June. There were a number of first-time attendees to participate in an excellent program. This was our first reunion and annual meeting at the Bar17 Event Center, and our group appeared to be very pleased with this location. We will return for our 2019 event. There also appeared to be general satisfaction with our new hotel, a very new Best Western Plus.

Our website remains our top priority at this time. After being down for several months, our current website host, Roots Web, is functioning again, and so is our website. Yea! Web master Mark Werner is heading our project to move our website to another host and to reorganize the material in a more organized and user-friendly manner, as has been agreed to by our board and by the general membership. Family history data base manager Debbie Brewer Cox and a committee representing family lines from Solomon and Naomi will assist as needed.

The board continues to ask family members to write short autobiographies and biographies of their family members whose history they want to preserve. Send to Debbie Brewer Cox for the family history data base, who will forward to webmaster Mark Werner for the web site. In the same vein, we continue to solicit family stories. They don't have to be fully documented or lengthy; if they are stories passed down from past generations in your family, and thus are a part of your family's written or oral tradition, we would like to publish them in our newsletter and preserve them on our website. Again, please send them to newsletter editor Debbie, who will forward them to webmaster Mark.

We also want the contact information (names, addresses, email addresses, phone #s) for your family members who are not on our mailing list. That's how we grow our numbers, and we don't want to lose track of family lines.

Finally, we welcome two new board members, Marty Burnett of Cherokee, Texas, and Dave Turner of Houston, Texas. Regrettably, we lose two long-time board members, Les Sutton and Bill Langston. Les, as many of you will know, was one of our Brandywine incorporators and founding directors. A long-time family researcher, he documented his research in a data base which he generously allowed to become the Brandywine family history data base and the address data base. Along with our deceased cousin and former director, Mary Lou Hudson Goins, he founded and managed our DNA project until very recently and maintained extensive family history records, now part of the Brandywine collections at the University of Texas Center for American History and the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech. Les will continue to assist with the DNA project as needed and give wise counsel in general. Bill for many years chaired our research committee and was a devoted and accomplished researcher of Cox and related families. Living in Minnesota, he has found it difficult the past few years to attend our annual meetings but will continue to be a source of family research and history. All in our organization extend our sincere thanks to both of these former directors.

We hope to see many of you in Lampasas, Texas, this coming May 31-June 2.

We have a great family!

Joe Cox (H) 512-392-2097 — jandhcox@grandecom.net committee reviews books about our Cox and related families as candidates for distribution to some 30 genealogical libraries and organizations around the country. Criteria are listed on our web site. This committee also administers our archival agreements with The Center for American History at the University of Texas at Austin and the Southwest Collection at Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Texas.

These two projects are major parts of our work to record and preserve our family history, including the role our extended family has had in settling the United States, the stories of our family personalities, and the day-to-day lives and experiences of our ancestors.

If you have or know of a book that you deem worthy of our distribution or have or know of a collection of family history papers that need a home, please contact Chairman Gary Sutton or one of his committee members.

REUNION ACTIVITIES

BRANDYWINE FAMILY GOLF TOURNAMENT

We would like to bring back our family golf tournament, which at one time attracted great participation but has not been scheduled for the past few years.

The tournament, which was very informal with lots of camaraderie, took place on Friday morning at 9:00 A.M., the first day of our three-day annual meeting and reunion in Lampasas.

Enthusiasm was more important than skill.

If you would like to participate this year (May 31st, 2019), please contact Linda Atkins at doublell2010@yahoo.com, ph. 405-549-6588.

FAMILY MEMORIES

CLARK - MOORE FAMILY

My grandfather, John William Moore, Jr. was born 12Aug1886 and died 20Mar1924 in Lampasas County, Texas. I am not sure where he was born. Probably Lampasas since his family settled there in the mid 1870s. He is buried in Smith Cemetery School Creek, Lampasas County, Texas.

My grandmother, Martha Ann Clark Moore was born 24Oct1891, I suppose on her parent's place (Alexander Greaton "Harry" Clark & Amy Emma Cox Clark). Harry & Amy Emma Cox Clark's place was only a short distance from the Pleasant Cox place. She died on 25Jul1920 from appendicitis at her home in the School Creek Community in Lampasas County, Texas.. She had survived the surgery at Scott & White Hospital, Temple, Texas and was recovering at home. I suppose her death might be related to poor hygiene since doctors have learned so much that was unknown then. She is buried at Smith Cemetery School Creek, Lampasas County, Texas.

My mother, Robbie Katherine Moore Walton was born 30Jan1913 in Grundyville Texas. The town doesn't exist any more but was near the Rumley community in Lampasas County, Texas. It is not far from the Clark & Cox's place if you travel across a pasture. She died 19Sep2003 in an Arlington, Texas nursing home. Dementia raised it's ugly head in the mid 1990s and I moved her up here to the DFW area of Texas where I have lived most of my adult life. She was able to live with me in my home until 2000, but she started falling and I was no longer physically strong enough to lift her off the floor. She is buried in Oak Hill Cemetery in Lampasas, Texas. She still had a Bible gifted to her by her father Christmas 1923 & we buried it with her. ~~ Pictured at right: Robbie Katherine Moore Walton (1913-2003)

By the time Robbie was eleven years old she had been orphaned by both parents. She and her sister were raised by their paternal maiden aunt, Lula Moore. They also spent quite a bit of time with their Clark grandparents. The Clarks had eleven children and apparently their home was open to any of their grandchildren at any time. Robbie was especially close to the daughters of her uncle, Norah Ervin Clark. His daughters were Iva Rue Clark Jackson, Iona Clark Adams, Mildred Clark Potts, and Veta Faye Clark Haines. In the 1990s, Robbie & Iona decided they wanted to take a trip down memory lane so I took them. We couldn't find the Long Meadows Cox Cemetery because this was in the days before the cemetery had been fenced off and restored.

We did find the Harry and Emma Cox Clark place and the minute we drove up Robbie & Iona (Iona Clark Adams 1908-1999) dissolved into fits of giggles & told this funny story about their Grandpa Clark. When automobiles became commonplace in Lampasas some of his children talked Grandpa Clark into getting one. I believe that one of his sons was also along for this great adventure. Both Robbie & Iona were there for the show that ensued. When he got to the gate going to their house, Grandpa Clark yelled Whoa!!!!! Naturally the car didn't understand & he went crashing through the gate with this new fangled invention. Grandpa Clark refused to ever drive a car again. His words were, "If this dang thing didn't have enough sense to stop when I yelled Whoa I'm not going to have anything to do with it. At least a horse has enough sense to stop"

John William Moore, Jr. and Martha Ann Clark

I especially would love for someone in the world to know about my grandparents (John William Moore, Jr. and Martha Ann Clark). They were born so long ago and died so young there's probably no one other than my brother (Horace Glen Walton) and myself that knows that they ever existed. I have no children; my brother has three but they do not have an interest in genealogy.

My mother and her sister (Ima Jean Moore Burns), although orphaned young, did not seem to suffer any deprivation in the material sense. The Moore family was not wealthy by any stretch of the imagination but the girls had a car with a rumble seat when they were teens. They had the rumble seat filled with watermelons they had grown and were on their way to Lampasas to sell them. Like nearly all teenagers, they had a tendency to drive too fast, rolled the car going around a curve, and smashed all the watermelons. The melons were the only thing that suffered any real damage. They took trips to Oklahoma and Arizona to visit relatives and lived a rather comfortable life in so far as possible as orphaned children can.

My aunt (Ima Jean Moore Burns), eloped at age 16 and had a happy marriage for 60+ years until her death. My mother (Robbie Katherine Moore Walton) attended college at Mary Hardin Baylor College in Belton, Texas Tech in Lubbock and Daniel Baker College in Brownwood, Texas and she taught school at Unity School north of Lampasas & south of Adamsville. While attending college at Daniel Baker College she had a roommate from Moline who just so happened to have a single brother. That is when she met my father Horace Grant Walton. They were married August 30, 1936, and farmed and ranched there in Moline and also bought additional adjoining property. They lived there until his untimely death at age 58 in 1970. Robbie continued to run the ranch until the mid 1990s when she became disabled from dementia. She was one amazing woman. She worked in the fields, kept the house spotless, always had a large garden, and was a beautiful seamstress who made all my clothes. I had more beautiful clothes than anyone in the county. In one respect it was not to my advantage because it turned me into a clothes horse. After I finished college and started working I spent way too much money on clothes. Now that I'm older I just throw on a pair of jeans and to heck with looking good.

I think it is a bit ironic that the Walton place in Moline was only a couple of miles from the home of Mother's great uncle, Francis Marion Cox. As a child I remember Mr. Cox, his sons, Joe (Joe Berton Cox, Sr.) and John (John Thomas Cox), and Ernest (William Ernest Cox) and his daughter Hattie (Hattie Elsie Cox Sherriff). I knew Ernest best. Every time Ernest saw me, he would laugh and call me "Little Robbie".

I have corresponded with Joe via email & that is how I came to know about Brandywine Crucible.

FAMILY HISTORY

Ancestors of Rachel Carr By Marie Polly, Digfor9@att.net January 4, 2018 —reprint—

Good Morning Brandywine family,

We now have some additional information about the ancestors of Rachel Carr. She was the wife of Thomas Carr, and their children were, Benjamin, Solomon, Nathan, and Jehu. I've been both interested and fascinated for a lengthy time about this branch of our family, and I have been asked to write about the information that I found and the way that I found it.

Originally, I pursued another opinion that assumed that we connect to the Carr family of Rhode Island. Caleb Carr was a Quaker, and eventually became the Governor of that state. There is printed literature of his descendants, and he did have a son named Nicholas, and Nicholas had a son named Benjamin (actually 2 sons). The first son died and in 1697 another son was named Benjamin and he married a woman named Ann. From this source, it lists no descendants. Another source said that they had 2 girls, so that would end the Carr name for his line.

From Hinshaw's transcribed Quaker Encyclopedia. We find that our Thomas was from Maryland, his father was Benjamin, he had a sister named Juliatha, and that they had been received at Cane Creek MM in NC. On the marriage certificate, Thomas Carr and Rachel Jones were living in Orange Co. NC. His father is listed as being from Baltimore, and he is deceased.

With this limited information, I began a search in the online digital archives of Maryland. A study of the geographical development of Maryland, it's early history and the influence of Virginia gave additional important insite into our Carr family.

During the colonial period, there were 2 Carr families. One was John Carr and his wife Petrocella. They had a son, Nicholas. I found no connection with them to our family.

Since Juliatha was our Thomas's sister, and that name is a very uncommon, I suspected that there was a connection to the Walter and Juliatha Carr family. There are numerous records of Walter Carr on the Maryland archives. The names of 3 of their children are listed in the 1680 will of Thomas Daborne. Juliatha is his executrix and the children that are listed are John, Richard and Susan. It is uncertain if Thomas Daborne was Juliatha's father, a kinsman, neighbor or a business partner of her husbands. It is also speculated that her father was Richard Gott who came into the Maryland province in 1658 or 59 Page 2 with a daughter named Juliatha. Richard Gott's known family included himself, his wife Susanna and daughters Juliatha and Susanna. Juliatha named one of her sons Richard, and her only daughter It does not appear that Walter and Juliatha (Lartha) Susanna. were Quakers. Their son Thomas was a Quaker and married Elizabeth Price in Baltimore. He was born in Baltimore in 1666 and died there in 1758. Walter and Lartha are mentioned in the 1705 marriage record as parents, but there is no indication that either parent was still alive. None of the family were on the list of people that signed the marriage record. They are also not listed on earlier Quaker records. Walter was listed as a soldier, and was often in court where he would be under oath. Quakers did not fight or swear oaths in court.

Walter Carr JR. was married to Martha. Both Walter Sr. and Walter Jr. died in 1699 and Martha Carr requested letters of administration for both her husband and her father-in-law. The next year she married John Wiley.

"One of the last records of Walter Carr, Sr. was on 7 September 1687, when he sold 100 acres of the 227-acre tract "Beaverdam Branch" to Edward Talbott. His wife may have died before then because there is no record that she released her right of dower to that land. Possibly the last record of her was in 1685, when she was the executrix of Thomas Daborne's will." "At the court session dated 8 May 1710, John Wiley and his wife Martha, administratrix of Walter Carr, JR. and administratrix of Walter Carr, SR., his father, were granted a continuance (Abstracts of the Testamentary Proceedings of the Prerogative Court of Maryland, Vol. XII, by V.L. Skinner, 2008, p. 28). At the session dated 1 August 1710, John Carr, BEN Carr, and Susannah Hawkins (alias Susannah Tracy), children of Walter Carr, Sr., petitioned that the balance of his estate be transmitted to Anne Arundel Court. Mentioned in this proceeding was Martha Wiley, widow of Walter Carr, Jr. for his children (ibid., p. 50)."

On 8 Nov. 1709, at the Anne Arundel County Court, the petition of John Whelley was presented. "Petitioner married the widow of Walter Carr, who had four small children. Petitioner has brought them up so that now they are capable of doing something for him, but some ill-minded people have deluded two of them from him and their mother. Petitioner has been ill and asks that his shortcomings as a step-parent be pardoned. Court named a panel of five, and ordered that they or any two of them bind out the two children mentioned, provided John Whelley does not clothe them and do everything for their maintenance that the law directs" ("Orphans Cases in Anne Arundel County Court, Page 3 Maryland Judgment Record TB 2, November 1708-June 1712," Transcribed by Doug Hayman, Anne Arundel Readings, Vol. 7, no. 2, July 2004, p. 22"

From the three paragraphs in parenthesis just quoted, I am assuming that the children mentioned in 1710 were the children of Walter Sr. (John, Ben, and Susan) because we know that Walter and Juliatha had children named John and Susan, so Ben would be their younger brother which would perhaps have been born by 1685.

In 1650, Thomas Carr, son of Benjamin acknowledged that he wanted to a part of the Friends at the Baltimore Meeting. There are no records that I can find that either John, Susan, or Benjamin were Quakers. Our Thomas's connection appears to be with Thomas and Elizabeth Carr, before Thomas died in 1758.

Additional information:

John Carr, son of Walter Carr Sr. died in Baltimore in 1739 November 1716, Benjamin purchased land from Thomas Hooker Susanne's first two husbands died and she married Augustine Hawkins. They had 5 children, and 4 of the births of their children are recorded in the register of St. James Parish which was located in Herring Creek Hundred, Anne Arundel Co. MD It is speculated that Richard died in 1699. He was not married and did not have any children.

Since this is lengthy, I will add more at a later date.

SIR JOHN HUSSEY (1466-1536)

This is the ancestor beheaded for not bringing his tenants to fight for Henry VIII.

Baron of Sleaford.

In 1521 he was made Chief Butler of England. He was signatory to document sent from England begging papal approval for Henry VIII's divorce from Catherine. Gave evidence at the trial of her previous marriage with Prince Arthur. Appointed Chamberlain to illigitimized 'Princess' Mary and at this time his allegiance to her father began to waver.

Occupation Chief Butler of England

John Hussey, 1st Baron Hussey of Sleaford (1465/1466 - 1536/1537) (sometimes 'Huse') was Chief Butler of England from 1521 until his death. [3] He was a member of the House of Lords, and a Chamberlain to King Henry VIII's daughter, Mary I of England.

Hussey was born in Sleaford, Lincolnshire, England, son of William Hussey, an English judge and Chief Justice of the King's Bench. His mother was the former Elizabeth Berkeley. Hussey's siblings included: Elizabeth, who married Richard Grey, 3rd Earl of Kent, and Mary Hussey, who married William Willoughby, 11th Baron Willoughby de Eresby.

In 1497, at the Battle of Blackheath, Hussey was knighted. Six years later, he was made 'Knight of the Body', bodyguard to King Henry VII, followed by an appointment as 'Master of Lyfield Forest', Rutland in 1505 and Comptroller of the Household in 1509. On 16 August 1513, he was promoted to Knight banneret.

In 1493 Hussey was appointed Sheriff of Lincolnshire and by 1513 he was custos rotulorum for the county. On 6 July 1523, he was elected Member of Parliament as a knight of the shire for Lincolnshire. Three years later, 5 February 1526, he was appointed a judge. On 3 November 1529 he was re-elected to Parliament as knight of the shire for Lincolnshire but received a Writs of Summons on 1 December 1529 to the House of Lords as 'Johannes Hussey de sleford, chivaler'. In June 1530, Hussey was named Lincolnshire Castle's Commissioner for Gaol Delivery, and later that same year. Hussey sold some of his large holdings (the Somersetshire manors of Batheaston. Bathampton. Bathford, Twerton; the Wiltshire manors of Compton Bassett, Comerwell, and North Wraxall.

On the 10th September 1533, Lord Hussey attended the christening of princess Elizabeth (later Queen Elizabeth 1), daughter of Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn, and carried the canopy over the 3-day old child with George Boleyn, Viscount Rochford, Lord Thomas Howard, and William Howard, 1st Baron Howard of Effingham.

Hussey was Chamberlain to King Henry's daughter, Mary, while Hussey's second wife, Lady Anne, was one of Mary's attendants. Though King Henry forbade anyone from calling his daughter, Mary, by the title of Princess, Lady Anne did do so, after which she lost her attendant position around June 1534 and was imprisoned in the Tower of London in August. Asking for the King's pardon, she was released before the end of the year.

In addition to his responsibilities at Court and Parliament, Hussey was steward to John Longland, the conservative Bishop of Lincoln, and King Henry's confessor.

Hussey was implicated along with his cousin as complicit in the 1536 uprising known as the Pilgrimage of Grace. Though Hussey denied participation in the rebellion, he was accused of conspiring to change laws and depose the king, and that he abetted those who made war on the king in October 1536. The charges may have been levied in part because of Hussey's Catholic sympathies, and because Hussev and his wife, having served 'Princess' Mary, were partisans on her behalf. Hussey was indicted and tried for treason, and found guilty by the House of Lords. He was beheaded in Lincoln in 1536, while his cousin, Thomas Darcy, was executed on Tower Hill.

Hussey's statement ('confession') survives.

Beheaded for not bringing his tenants to fight for King Henry VIII. Cromwell offered him a pardon if he would furnish particulars. He refused. ??

FAMILY STORIES

Memories of my Grandfather Nicholas Cornelius 'Nick' Cox October 2018 by Marvalene 'Missy' Cox Jones

Maybe I have not titled this story right, because my grandfather Nick Cox died in 1929 and I was born in 1930. However, his life is very familiar to me, and my Daddy, William Cornelius 'Will' Cox and my Mother, Minnie Steward Cox talked about him and the family a lot. Grandpa Nick was born in 1850 in Smith County, East Texas, and was married to Mary Jane Johnson on April 19, 1975 in Comanche County.

I was born in 1930, and I had an older brother, Cornelius Wilburn Cox who was born in 1915. My Mother and Daddy had married in 1912. I also had an older sister, Geneva Cox Mercer and she was born in 1919.

My brother Wilburn talked a lot about being with Grandpa Cox. My family, my daddy, mother and Wilburn and Geneva moved to West Texas to farm about 1924. So my brother had many memories of Grandpa Cox.

Wilburn said that Grandpa Cox told him this story. He said that he and Catherine, his sister, were riding horseback one day. They had some horses that had gotten out and they were looking for them. He said the Indians got after them. He said that Catherine was riding a really good horse, but that she was afraid to make it 'really run'.

Grandpa Cox told Wilburn, and these are his exact words! "I dropped back, quirted her horse on the rump and we were able to outrun the Indians."

I have been over the country where they were at. I have studied family stores and stories of other people that have talked about this time in the history of Comanche County. We are all descended from strong people. Just imagine knowing that any minute that the Indians might attack. I have read stories about frontier mothers who would not let their children play outside on bright moonlight nights, because that was known as raiding time by the Indians.

Filling the Kerosene Lamps October 2018

by Marvalene 'Missy' Cox Jones

When I was a pretty small girl, probably six or seven years old, we lived on Grandpa Cox's plat, off of County Road 330 going toward Gustine. This was in the late 1930's or early 1940's.

We did not have electricity, and used Kerosene Lamps. We called this COAL OIL. Anyway, Daddy had an oil can about 24 inches tall that the coal oil was in. He would take the can to Comanche to have it refilled. There was a round screw off lid on top of the can, and a little spout on the top of the can for filling the lamp.

I did this outside, on the back door doorstep. The doorstep was several flat rocks, and they were at the back door on the west side of our house.

I would take off the lamp globe, wash it good, rinse it and dry it with a kitchen dish towel. It was pretty thin glass and I had to be very careful with it, or it would break.

Now the wick was about an inch wide, and maybe 12 inches long. The wick looked almost like a piece of crochet, and was heavy white string knitted together. This was put into the top of the lamp, and the bottom of the wick would be down in the coal oil. It would 'wick' up the coal oil into the wick, in other words, the wick would draw up the coal oil and be wet with the coal oil and you would light this u to light the lamp.

I used Mama's scissors to trim the wick. It had to be trimmed straight across, and then I trimmed across the ends just a little bit. If it wasn't trimmed right, when you lighted the wick, it would burn crooked, and there would be a big black smudge of smoke on the globe, and you would have to wash the globe all over again.

I thought I was pretty grown up to be able to help my Mama this way.

By the way, n the movies, when they light the lamp, the whole room lights up. That is not the way it was. The lamp just gave off about 36 inches, or three fee of light. When Maxine and I were getting our lessons at the dining room table, we had the coal oil lamp on the table and that was out lights. Mama would walk by, pick up the lamp, take it over to the kitchen stove to see how supper was looking, and then put it back on our table.

Maxine told me, "no wonder we all wear glasses." We lived in the dark and studied pretty well in the dark."

FROM OUR YOUNG HISTORIANS

Journeys of the Cox Brothers October 2018 submitted by: Marvalene 'Missy' Cox Jones

This story is about the "Journeys of the Cox Brothers", written by my granddaughter, Marki, daughter of my son Mark and his wife Laurie. Marki was ten years old when she wrote this.

Marki has always been better on the computer that I ever was. I gave her some of the dates, etc. of this story, but the bones of the story are all hers.

For instance, she asked me about washing the clothes while they were traveling on the trail in the wagon train. She asked me if the girls would have helped their mother wash clothes.

I had never thought about that before. But, of course, the Cox girls would have helped their mother wash the clothes.

And, the Journeys of the Cox brothers, of course, refers back to the first trip they took, which was traveling from Missouri to Texas in the wagon train.

And the second trip they took was joining up with the Confederate army.

Journeys of the Cox Brothers

by Marki Jones Daughter of Mark and Lauri Jones, Granddaughter of Marvalene 'Missy' Cox Jones

And, the eldest son in the family was Andrew J. Cox, and he is my great grandfather, the father of Cornelius Nicholas 'Nick' my grandfather, and William Marion Cox, Catherine Cox and Amanda Cox.

The boys were: Andrew J. Cox (the oldest son), George Henry Cox, Cornelius Jackson Cox. Andrew, George Henry and Cornelius 'Jack' all rode 90 miles from Dallas to McKinney Texas to join up with the 6th Texas Calvary, Col. B. Warren Stone. This was on September 21, 1862. (When they joined up, 'Jack' was only 15 years old, being born in 1847) I have copies of their muster in records. They valued their horses and their guns. They were in a bunch of battles, like the battle of Pea Ridge in Arkansas and others. (And I have all of the battle records for each Cox boy who served in the Confederacy battles).

I have a book about the battle of 'PEA RIDGE, Arkansas. It is telling the story of this battle between the Confederates and the Yankees, and when it tells about 'The confederates came sweeping across the wheat field', hey his is about our family. Missy Jones

Christopher C. Cox and Harvey Cox enlisted int he 19th Texas Calvary, Burford's regiment in Dallas county on March 21, 1862. I have copies of their muster in records.

Jacob W. Cox enlisted in the 18th Texas Cavalry, Darnell's Regiment in Dallas County on March 15, 1862. I have copies of his muster in record. He was killed at the battle of Mansfield, Louisiana on April 8th, 1864.

And Andrew and the rest of the boys all made it home alive, all except Jacob. Joseph didn't serve in the Confederacy.

When they made the trip to Texas, Andrew, the oldest son, was 23 years old. Joseph was 20 years old, Harvey was 17 years old, Christopher was 9 years old, George Henry was 7 years old, Jacob was 4 years old and Jack was a baby of 1 year old.

The family and the wagon train came to Dallas in 1845. There was very few log cabins in Dallas at that time.

I have a record of where Andrew J. Cox paid his poll tax in Texas, and it was The Republic of Texas at that time.

Cornelius 'Neely', Pa took up land through the Peters Colony. They had 640 acres, and a part of it bordered the Trinity River.

AUTOBIOGRAPHIES & BIOGRAPHIES

The Board of Directors encourages all descendants of Solomon and Naomi Hussey Cox and related families to develop short biographies for Brandywine.

This is a way of documenting who we are and preserving the story of our lives for future generations. A one-page bio will suffice, telling the family what we should know about you, although longer ones will be fine. We will post on our web site and perhaps at some time publish in book form all of our biographies, so please indicate with your submission your willingness to have your biography posted and published. You can also do a biography for your parents, grandparents, favorite uncles and aunts, etc. We do hope that all of you will agree to share on behalf of our family posterity.

Please forward biographies to Debbie Brewer Cox, email: brandywinecrucible@gmail.com or 708 Creekridge Dr., Goodrich, TX 77335,

She will record information in our data base as appropriate and then forward to our webmaster.

LIFE AND TIMES WITH HORACE COX

August 18, 1898, I was born to William and Nanny Cox. There were five older sisters already and we lived on a farm about a mile west of Nolanville. The west side of that farm is now Harker Heights. It came back across Nolan Creek and Highway 190. Highway 190 now splits it half, in two. As this family grew, I had three more sisters, making a total of eight, and the house and farm had to grow. But as time went on, three of the older sisters married, and left the family. Later World War I broke out. About that time, I met and fell in love with a wonderful young lady. The war finally came to an end. Some of those younger sisters finished their education, and with my father and mother moved into Belton. We stayed out on the farm. Not long after the war, the young lady I fell in love with, and I got married on January 4, 1920. We moved out on the farm, and we stayed there for several years. We had two sons, and before they had gotten very old, we decided to leave the farm and move to St. Rita, New Mexico, a mining town. We stayed there for four or five years. The water there did not agree with me, and the doctor told me if I wanted to live, I would have to leave. We came back to Bell County. We moved out on a little ranch north of Belton and soon had another son. We had three boys and one daughter. We didn't stay there very long and went back to our old home place. That was some of the very hard years for our family on the farm. In all we had three girls and five boys. We lost one daughter to Leukemia. We made it through the rough years until the older boys went to serve with Uncle Sam. The older daughter went to school and that left two sons and two daughters. We raised seven children. We decided to move to Houston, and we stayed down there about twenty-five or thirty years. I was a Fuller Brush Salesman. We stayed there until we left and went out to a place called Sweet Home. There we took care of, an elderly man who some woman had gotten hold of and was about to get everything he had. Later, we went to San Antonio to a home where we stayed with a rich lady and took care of her bulldog. She had show dogs. My wife kind of had to take care of her. She was a wonderful lady, and has passed on now. We moved from San Antonio to a home on North Beal in Belton and stayed there for two or three years, and then moved out to the country about nine miles out of town on a two-hundred acre cattle farm. We stayed there for 15 or 16 years. We moved from the cattle farm to 730 Mitchell Street. It was at this place that my wife passed away on - March 12, 1995 I am still living in this same place.

FAMILY CEMETERY HISTORY

Lampasas County's Longmeadow Cemetery

by Mike Cox

A thunderstorm growing darker by the minute hungrily sucked moisture-rich air from the south, the resulting strong wind shaking the blue cloth tied around the state historical marker folks had come to dedicate at Lampasas County's Longmeadow Cemetery.

His gray straw cowboy hat seated solidly on his head, 88year-old Arlee Claud Gowen stood before an assemblage of relatives and a few guests with his back facing the soon-to-be-unveiled metal marker. Clutching a yellow-tipped microphone in one hand and the text of his remarks in the other, he put things into perspective.

"When Abraham Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg, he referred to the area as hallowed ground," the long-time Lubbock resident began. "Lincoln referred to the nation as then having 'four score and seven years.' The tenure of this cemetery is now 'ten score and 18 years.' Its longevity exceeds that of the United States by 17 years."

A former newspaper reporter-printer and decorated World War Ilveteran, Gowen ranks as dean of a group of tenancious genealogists belonging to a branch of the Cox family (no relation) that has traced its Texas roots deeper than even the most waterstarved mesquite. Many of their forebears are buried in this small rural cemetery, a fenced graveyard accessible only by an unpaved private road. In Lampasasfor their annual reunion, members of the Brandywine Crucible – an organization of people named Cox and various other surnames – attended the marker dedication May 21.

While its exact location is unknown, the first burial in or near this cemetery 8 miles east of Lampasas occurred in 1793. And it may well be the oldest Anglo burial in Texas.

Only a decade after the Revolutionary War, a party of American mustangers led by Virginia-born Thomas Isaac Cox came to the vast plains of Spanish Texas hunting wild horses. They encountered an Indian war party and succeeded in repulsing them, but Cox's nephew, 16-year-old William Charles Bybee, caught an arrow in his chest. Someone broke the feathered shaft and extracted the arrowhead, but everyone must have known the teenager wouldn't make it.

After suffering through the night, begging for water, Bybee died the following morning. It was his 17th birthday – July 4, 1793.

"His companions dug his grave at the foot of a large postoak tree and wrapped his body in his blanket," Gowen continued. "They carried large limestone slates from the fence surrounding the immense horsetrap nearby and placed them on top of his grave."

The youth's grandfather, James Christopher Cox, chopped three diagonal slashes on the tree to mark the grave.

Gowen said he had interviewed Joe Burton Cox, Sr., who grew up on the ranch surrounding the cemetery, before his death.

"He...recalled seeing this tree with its three slashes when he was a boy," Gowen said. "Later he wrote a history of this cemetery and mentioned 37 burials here."

A story connected to the last person buried in Longmeadow Cemetery circles around its long-ago first burial.

Martha Jane Bybee married Pleasant C. Cox, who in 1856 came to Texas to homestead on the land where William Bybee, her father's brother, had been buried the previous century. When he learned she would be going to Texas with her new husband to settle where her relatives had trapped horses in the 1700s, her father asked her to find and care for Bybee's grave. She did that, planted flowers, and kept those flowers and their successors watered until her own death 56 years later.

On a bitterly cold day in Feburary 1912, her family buried her in the cemetery. Ten years later, the Coxes sold the ranch and the cemetery became overgrown.

One of Martha Jane's sons, John Thomas Cox, later rode as a Texas Ranger. According to family lore, he once observed that the old cemetery held the remains of citizens of six different nations.

"Burials were made under the flag of Spain until 1799, the tricolor of France until 1803, the flag of Mexico until 1836, the flag of the Republic of Texas until 1845, the flag of the Confederate States of America until 1865 and the Stars and Stripes of the United States until the present," Gowen said.

The youngest occupant of the cemetery is Joseph "Buck" Cox, a brother of the ranger who first pointed out the multi-national aspect of the family plot. Not quite four, Buck died on May 5, 1872.

"His death came as a result of a concussion received by butting his head against a wall in a temper tantrum," Gowen said.

Of the known burials in the cemetery, only a hanful are marked by headstones. In 2001, the Coxes got Dr. John Dunbar, a Baylor University geologist, to survey the cemetery with ground-penetrating radar. He located 21 other likely graves, now marked by stakes.

Among the known but unmarked graves are those of Charlie Boyd, a cowboy who rode for the legendary cattleman "Shanghai" Pierce, and another waddy known only as "Stumpy" Watson. According to Gowen, on Dec. 10, 1874, the two men got into a row that escalated into a gunfight. When the blackpowder smoke cleared, both lay mortally wounded.

Folks carried them to the Cox house, where Martha Jane nursed them for a week and a half. Despite her best efforts, Boyd died at sunrise on December 22.

"When she told 'Stumpy' that Charlie had died," Gowen said, "he replied, 'Good, now I can die in peace." And that's just what he proceeded to do.

CARL EVANS BOCHOW, SR. -

Services for Carl E. Bochow, Sr. 88, of Tyler, will be held on Wednesday, August 9, 2017, with graveside services at 10:00 a.m. at Rose Hill Cemetery, followed at 11:00 a.m. by the memorial service at First Christian Church with Dr. Chris Pulliam officiating. Visitation will be Tuesday at Stewart Family Funeral Home on August 8, 2017, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Carl passed away, Friday, August 4, 2017. He was born September 19, 1928 in Sylvan Grove, KS to Fred and Maude Bochow. He grew up in Salina, KS, graduated from Salina High School and joined the U.S. Navy with 20 friends. After his service, he attended Colorado School of Mines in Golden, CO, earning a B.S. in Petroleum Refining Engineering in 1952. He then started his life in Texas, accepting a position in Baytown with Humble Oil and Refining Company, which later became Exxon. In 1953, he moved to Corpus Christi to work for Suntide Refining Company. Soon after, he met the love of his life, Evelyn Cheatham at a Sunday school party. He said he immediately knew that Evelyn was the one for him; however, it took several years for him to convince her of the same. They were married August 18, 1957.

In May 1960, Carl and Evelyn moved to Tyler to join Howe-Baker Engineers and their first son Carl, Jr. was born in July. In September 1960, they were transferred to New Jersey where Carl had business responsibilities for the Eastern U.S. and Canada. Their second son, Thomas, was born in 1961. As a happy family of four, they enjoyed living close to New York City and its many attractions.

In the summer of 1962, Carl was promoted to Chief Process Engineer for Howe-Baker and they moved back to Tyler. In 1964, their third son, Robert was born. In 1967, Carl was promoted to Vice President of Sales. At this time he began extensive international travel with Howe-Baker, making frequent and long trips throughout the world. In 1970, Carl was named President of Howe-Baker. In 1974, he and the other company officers organized a leveraged buyout from Howe-Baker's parent company, Nalco Chemical Company. Howe-Baker thrived and grew in the following years. Serving as the President, CEO and Chairman of the Board of Howe-Baker, Carl led a dynamic organization of engineering and fabrication professionals, designing and building refining and petrochemical facilities throughout the world. Carl was admired for his unfaltering positive attitude and encouraged a culture of openness and camaraderie at Howe-Baker in which everyone felt like family. Carl retired in 1990 after thirty years of service, but remained active with the company as Chairman until 1996.

Carl had many hobbies and interests. When he moved to Corpus Christi in 1953, he began playing golf, sailing and the new sport of scuba diving. He and Evelvn enjoyed diving throughout retirement, making annual dive trips to Bonaire as well as other locations. Carl was an avid golfer and he and Evelyn frequently played together. Carl was attentive to his health and was one of the early joggers, starting around 1964, well before the development of modern day running shoes. During most of his career, he would rise at dawn and head to the Robert E. Lee track for a five mile run. He kept a daily log of his runs, surpassing 30,000 miles in 2015. He was proud to say that he had run farther than the circumference of the earth. Carl also enjoyed many hunting and fishing trips with his friends and sons. The family started snow skiing in the mid 70's, which became a favorite activity that also led to Carl and Evelyn spending much of their retirement years at their second home in Angel Fire, NM, where they developed many close friendships. Among Carl's many interests, science was one of his favorite topics. He enjoyed learning about the latest science developments, which led him to being an early adopter of the latest technologies and gadgets, from computers to anything else electronic.

During retirement, Carl remained active in business through his volunteer work with the Tyler chapter of SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives), providing mentoring to new businesses. He was recently recognized for 20 years of service with SCORE. Carl was also active with Rotary International both in Tyler and Angel Fire. Carl has been a member of First Christian Church in Tyler, since 1960, where he served as an Elder. He was also active with the United Church of Angel Fire in New Mexico, which he and Evelyn helped establish. During retirement, Carl resumed his travels throughout the world, going on many international trips with Evelyn and a group of their close Tyler friends.

Carl is survived by his loving wife of nearly 60 years, Evelyn, three sons and daughters-inlaw and seven grandchildren: Carl, Jr. and Karen Bochow with their children Clayton and Kathleen; Dr. Thomas and Debra Bochow with their children Samuel and Andrew; Robert and Celeste Bochow with their children Kyle, Maegan and Emily. He is also survived by his younger brother Dr. Jerry Barlow of Baton Rouge, LA and special nephew Scooter Cheatham of Austin and special niece Catherine Rawdon of Carrollton. He was preceded in death by his parents.

Serving as pallbearers will be: Clayton and Kyle Bochow, Jim Blair, Scooter Cheatham, Boyd Hamilton, Harris Harlan, Dick Pate, Jim Rollins and Les Talbert. Honorary pallbearers are: Samuel and Andrew Bochow.

His main avocation, especially after he retired, was helping people, whether they were strangers he had just me or life-long friends. In his last hours, he shared with his family a philosophy for living well — Peace, Love, and Celebration. And we're all doing it!

He is survived by his wife of 43 years, Jennifer, and his children — Nathan of Palo Alto, Johnathan of Sacramento, and Caitlin of Brooklyn, New York. He will also be missed by his daughter-in-law Erica, his sister Mary Ann, brother Jerry, brothers-in-law Sam, Tim, and Pat, as well as his beloved nieces and nephews. Dan said, I love much and am much loved. It's true.

MISSION: To assist in restoring a "flat marker" for those headstones deteriorating over time for future generations, or donate a set amount for labor to install the "flat marker." Brandywine will contribute up to $125.00 for each marker

PROCEDURES:

- 1. Fill out and send in the approved BRANDYWINE CRUCIBLE HEADSTONE RESTORATION/REPLACEMENT REQUEST FORM
- 2. Set a standardized size and style "flat marker" and printed information not to exceed three lines or send information for request for labor amount
- 3. Send photos of the location and of the headstone with request form.
- 4. Families are responsible for finding a monument company and obtaining an estimate for the restoration and/or labor before making the request.
- 5. Families will then know if it is feasible to do the work requested for the $125.00, or decide if they want to contribute to cover any additional cost.
- 6. Brandywine and the Committee are not responsible for finding a monument company to do the marker repair.
- 7. Send photos of the completed "flat marker", or a copy of labor installation.
- 8. Cox Line relationship: The ancestor should tie into the 4th generation (e.g. Jehu Cox and Sarah Riddle Pyle) or 5th generation, (e.g. Thomas Isaac and Rachel Carr).
- 9. Frequency: There should be one request per family each year depending on the number of other family submissions.

SOLICITING FAMILY STORIES to be published in our newsletter and on our website. We want your family stories, whether proven or unproven. Stories put flesh on the bones of genealogy. If a story recurs in your family line, it should be preserved. The stories can revolve around a personality, an event, or any combination. They can be humorous, happy, sad, or even tragic, but if you dee them important to your family, we want to preserve them. There sometimes will be overlap with our autobiography-biography program, which records the lives of individuals, but this will be a separate project. This is an important part of our work to preserve our family history.

PLEASE submit your family stories to Debbie B. Cox, 708 Creekridge Drive, Goodrich, Texas 77335 or email to brandywinecrucible@gmail.com
